Media & ASX Release

Friday 9 November 2007

Strong debut for CleanTeQ on ASX Company Lists at a 36% premium to issue price.

CleanTeQ (ASX:CLQ), an emerging Australian technology company in resource recovery and air and water purification, debuted on the Australian Stock Exchange at 11 am today and was currently trading at a 36% premium to the issue price of 50 cents. At 2pm today CleanTeQ was trading at 68 cents, having been as high as 73.5 cents during morning trade.

Greg Toll, Chief Executive Officer of CleanTeQ said that this is a great result for all shareholders.

"The outcome today is a strong vote of confidence in the future of our Company," Mr Toll said.

"We know that this is still very early days for us as a public company but with a clear strategic plan for growth, solid performance and great employees, the future is very much in our own hands."
